DISC GOLF AT JENKINSVILLE PARK

A COMMUNITY COURSE

Queensbury Parks & Recreation Disc Golf Course located at Ridge/Jenkinsville Park is an 18-hole disc golf course designed and constructed by professional disc golfer Jaimen Hume with assistance from Queensbury Parks & Recreation staff and several local volunteers.

WHO IS THE COURSE FOR?

This course is for players of all abilities; with both Beginner (red, gravel) and Advanced (blue, concrete) tee pads with MVP Black Hole baskets. The course layout is well suited for families and novice players to play the beginner red tees, and more technical and challenging for experienced players from the advanced blue tees.

WHAT IS THE TERRAIN?

The course encompasses the natural terrain of the wooded areas behind the sport complex athletic fields. It consists of a mix of uneven forest floor, grass, and hilly areas throughout. The course is approximately 1.5 miles long and play should take just over an hour. Trails are fairly short between holes, well-marked, and easy to follow.

WHERE DO I GET DISCS?

There are often donated discs available at the course. Discs can be checked out for free at the Recreation Department Office at 742 Bay Road and from Crandall Public Library. Discs are available for purchase at the following local businesses: Fountain Square Outfitters, Dick's Sporting Goods, and Common Roots Brewing Company.

WHERE DO I PARK?

- Main parking lots near Soccer and Softball fields
- Gravel lot behind the playground off of Old Cronin Road

742 Bay Road, Queensbury NY 12804
